Purpose
The purpose of this school is to give women in industry an opportunity through study and discussion to develop a deeper appreciation of life and a clearer understanding of their part and responsibilities as industrial workers.

Study
Here industrial women come each summer to learn something about Economics and Industrial History and Labor Problems. Lois MacDonald, who is instructor of Economics at New York University, conducts the discussions.

The students study English Composition, Public Speaking and Literature under Miriam Bonner, who teaches in the winter at Vineyard Shore School in New York state.

With Hollace Ransdell as Director of Dramatics, the women also take part in plays and even help write them.

Each day, under the leadership of Ontee Bell, Health Director at the Y. W. C. A., San Antonio, Texas, there is an hour of Gymnastics work and training in health habits. Miss Bell also teaches Swimming.

Through reading, small discussion groups and individual conferences, Learning is made easy and natural. This is true even of girls who had to leave school early to go into industry, if they are willing to work.

Recreation
Besides taking part in these educational activities, students at the Summer School do group Singing, play Tennis, Baseball and other games, and get further recreation through Swimming and Hiking.
